

LIVES AND PROPERTY DESTROYED BY FIRES IN NORTHERN TOWNS

HUNDREDS ARE THOUGHT TO HAVE PERISHED IN FLAMES WHICH SWEEPED MICHIGAN TOWNS.

MANY CITIES IN RUIN

Ann Arbor and Oscoda, Michigan, and Three Towns in Ontario Are Completely Wiped Out by Fierce Flames of Forest Fires—Other Places Threatened.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)
Detroit, Mich., July 12.—The destruction of Ann Arbor and Oscoda, and a half million dollar fire at Alpena, the latter of which was not due to forest fire, probably caused the exaggerated reports yesterday of heavy damage and possible loss of lives in forest fires in the northern counties of Michigan. The trouble was on the Detroit and Mackinac railroad from Posen to Cheboygan, which suffered considerable damage, but many towns last night reported burning were today safe. These include Lewistown, Tawas, and Alpena. It is impossible to confirm rumors of loss of life. Three bodies have been found at Ann Arbor.

Fear Hundreds Dead.
East Tawas, Mich., July 12.—The towns of Ann Arbor and Oscoda, directly opposite one another on the Ann Arbor river, northwestern Michigan, are wiped out and it is feared hundreds have perished as the result of the forest fires.

Hundreds of refugees arriving here today by train and boat say the fires swept the towns with horrible swiftness and many were suffocated or were hurled to death before reaching safety. Bodies are lying in the streets of Ann Arbor.

Public buildings were packed by those overtaken by the flames. Reports reached here today at Alpena and Hoyo City, both towns being surrounded by flames.

The following Michigan towns are threatened: Traverse City, Trowbridge, La Grange, Cheboygan, Lewistown, Bay Shore, Lake City and Boyne City. Millersburg, Larose and Onaway are reported destroyed.

Other Heavy Losses.
Alpena, Mich., July 12.—The towns of Alpena and Onaway are reported destroyed by forest fires. Heavy losses are also reported at Millersburg, Metz, Posen, Larose.

Codies of Refugees.
The burned bodies of three men and a woman were reported found today near the railroad tracks at Ann Arbor. The four were apparently heading for open fields when overcome.

Forest Guards Called.
Lansing, Mich., July 12.—The Michigan national guard of Michigan will be called out to do duty in the Michigan forest fire regions now burning. Major J. N. Cox is trying to communicate with Governor Osborn, who is enacting on Lake Michigan.

Eight Hundred Refugees.
Refugees continued to arrive this afternoon, some fearfully burned and in pitiful conditions. Over 300 have now arrived and the food supply here is exhausted. Relief has been asked. According to latest arrivals it took only six hours last night to level the two towns.

Many Are Missing.
Detroit, Mich., July 12.—Today's reports of the forest fires in Michigan say several southern families and lumber camp crews near Wolverine and several families near Gaylord are missing. Of the two towns, Oscoda and Ann Arbor, only the school and two dwellings are left standing. Reports continue to be received of possible loss of life at Oscoda and Ann Arbor.

Arrive at Port Huron.
Port Huron, Mich., July 12.—Two hundred and eighty victims, principally women and children who left Oscoda last night arrived at Port Huron today on steam barge, Nika.

From Canada.
North Bay, Ontario, July 12.—As a result of forest fires in northern Ontario, thirty lives are known to be lost at Porcupine. It is believed the casualties number hundreds.

Ontario Towns Ruined.

North Bay, Ontario, July 12.—The towns of Cochrane, South Porcupine and Port Huron are in ruins today, many persons are known to be dead and many missing as the result of forest fires sweeping the Porcupine region.

Scores of mining camps between Whitney township and Dome are reported wiped out. The town of Kola is half burned. The town of Kola was abandoned today after a three days' fight against the fire.

Hundreds of refugees from various districts are flocking into Golden City, across the lake from the fire-swept district, which is also now threatened.

Miles of Woodland Burned.
Toronto, July 12.—A stretch of three hundred miles of woodland in northern Ontario is swept by forest fires raging above North Bay. Many deaths are reported and property loss is enormous.

Three towns were wiped out and scores of mining camps are destroyed. Thousands of mining prospectors fled before the flames. The destruction of Cochrane, a town of twenty-five hundred inhabitants, on the Grand Trunk Transcontinental railroad, is nearly complete. All camps from Dome to Whitney townships are burned, forcing hundreds to the lakes and rivers.

NEW YORK REPORTS RECORD NUMBER OF DEATHS FROM HEAT

Twenty Deaths in New York City This Morning—277 Is Total For Ten Days.—Moderate Weather Is Predicted For East and Middle West.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
New York, July 12.—Although there was a gradual break in the heat wave yesterday, the deaths from heat up to midnight were twenty-five. The total during the ten days' heat was 277, breaking all records.

In Philadelphia, July 12.—Thirty-two deaths from heat were reported this morning.

Moderate Weather.
Washington, July 12.—The weather bureau today predicted moderate temperature for the eastern states and the middle west lasting through out the remainder of the week.

WILL REDRAFT BILL REMEDYING DEFECTS NAMED BY GOVERNOR

Members of Apportionment Committee Gather to Draft New Bill According to Objections of Governor.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison, Wis., July 12.—Members of the state apportionment committee arrived at the capitol today for the purpose of drafting a new apportionment bill. The sentiment of the majority of members today present reflected the idea of many in the plan to re-apportion Milwaukee county only covering the objections of Governor McGovern which caused his veto of the former bill.

Uses Veto Again.
Madison, July 12.—Governor McGovern today vetoed the measure legalizing the state dairy and food department to employ special attorneys to represent the department in law suits brought by or against it. The governor expressed the opinion that the attorney-general's office was competent to handle all legal procedure in connection with the state dairy and food department.

DEFENSE CLOSES IN TRIAL OF SEE TODAY

Attorney Cantwell Denies Women Who Have Crowded Court Room During Progress of Trial.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, July 12.—It is expected that the See case will go to the jury today. Attorney Cantwell in closing for the defense cried, "Shame" at women who, he said, had come to the trial day after day to listen to "Unclean, unhol, things." Cantwell added: "They filled their low minds with revolting details. Shame on them, I say, gentlemen of the jury. I'm glad none of your wives or sisters are here." A number left the room at this and Cantwell was informed that four of them were wives of jurors.

GOVERNOR FAVORS AD VALOREM TAX

Special Message to Legislature Today Advocates Ad Valorem Taxation For Phone Companies.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Madison, July 12.—Governor McGovern today sent a special message to the legislature which asks for the adoption of an ad valorem taxation system for telephone companies in Wisconsin.

The governor in his message said the bill which had been passed by the legislature simply increased the license fee and did not carry the recommendations made in his message. Quoting from recent United States court cases, the governor said: "It is a fair inference that if attacked in the courts the license fee plan of taxing telephone companies will not stand the test of unconstitutionality."

ROAD IMPROVEMENT SAVING OF MONEY

Interesting Facts Given Out in Report Made by the U. S. Office of Public Roads.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, July 12.—Calculations just made by the United States Office of Public Roads show that a saving of between half a billion and a billion dollars a year can be effected if the states would improve twenty per cent of the roads now in operation. The Public Roads Office estimates that this improvement would cost each state about $1,000,000, but that the tremendous yearly saving would more than make up for any expenditure of this kind. Appeals will be sent out to each state asking that the legislature take steps toward the improvement of roads.

To Wed a French Noble.

Paris, July 12.—Another important Franco-American matrimonial alliance is to be consummated here tomorrow, when Miss Agnes Lawrence, the daughter of John Lawrence of New York, is to become the bride of the Viscount de Montanant. The religious ceremony is to be performed at the Church of St. Pierre de Chaligny.

The bride-to-be, who has resided in Paris for some years, is a sister of Mrs. Douglas Campbell and a niece of the late John La Farge, the artist. Viscount de Montanant belongs to one of the oldest and wealthiest families of France. He is wealthy in his own right and among his possessions are two remarkable and beautiful chateaux.

TO CONFER TITLE ON THE YOUNG PRINCE

INVESTITURE OF PRINCE EDWARD AS PRINCE OF WALES TAKES PLACE TOMORROW.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Will Be Performed at Carnarvon Castle, Wales, Where First Prince of Wales Was Born Six Centuries Ago.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
London, July 12.—Attending the coronation itself in solemn splendor will be the ceremony tomorrow attending the investiture of the Prince of Wales. The ceremony will take place at Carnarvon Castle, where the first Prince of Wales was born more than six centuries ago.

The King and Queen who left Dublin today will land at Holyhead tomorrow morning and proceed thence by train to a small station a few miles from Carnarvon. The journey to the castle will be made under military escort and the arrival and welcome of their Majesties will be made the occasion for quaint and picturesque ceremonies.

The investiture is to take place in the early afternoon. The King will perform the ceremony, and a religious service will be conducted by the Bishop of Bangor and by a representative minister of the nonconformist church.

Within the castle two main processions will be formed, the procession of his royal highness the Prince of Wales proceeding first, followed by that of their Majesties the King and Queen.

The Prince, immediately after being invested, will proceed to the celebrated Queen Eleanor's Gateway at the southern extremity of the castle, commanding a view of the great castle square and the state quay, which will be cleared for the accommodation of the public. There, on a platform, the Prince will present himself to the view of his Welsh subjects.

The Prince will wear a specially designed robe of cloth of gold, modeled after one worn by Charles I., and beneath will retain his simple cadet dress, which is, after all, the highest uniform he can wear.

The title of Prince of Wales comes to the heir to the throne as an act of grace on the part of his father. The monarch is under no obligation to bestow the dignity of Prince of Wales upon his firstborn. Edward VII., for instance, did not confer the title of Prince of Wales upon his son until the latter had completed his tour of the colonies, that is to say, considerably more than a year after the demise of Queen Victoria.

Edward I. was the first king of England to create his eldest son Prince of Wales, with the object of reconciling the Welsh chieftains to English domination after the death of Llewellyn, the last native ruler of Wales. But it was not until the reign of Edward III. that the title was conferred on Cornwall to a dukedom, and bestowed it upon his son, Edward the Black Prince, with the provision that it should always be held by the heir apparent who was the son of the sovereign.

Hence it will be seen that, contrary to the popular impression, the dignity of Prince of Wales, as borne by the British heir apparent, is older than that of the Duke of Cornwall. The dignity of Prince of Wales carries with it no revenue, nor even prerogatives, and its holder sits in the House of Lords, and is entitled to take part in its deliberations, not as Prince of Wales, but as Duke of Cornwall.

Prince Edward, who will be the central figure in tomorrow's elaborate ceremony, is a typical Anglo-Saxon lad. He was born June 23, 1894, and entered the Royal Naval College at the age of thirteen. With his brothers and sisters he has been brought up as much like other English children as possible. They have been subjected to gentle but firm discipline and trained in habits of industry and self-reliance.

Royalty Departs From Erin.
Dublin, July 12.—The four days' visit of the King and Queen to Ireland came to an end today, when their Majesties and their suites left Dublin for Kingstown, whence they are to travel in the royal yacht Victoria and Albert to Holyhead. The royal party were given a cordial farewell.

It is only the sanguine-minded, however, who look to find substantial, desirable political effect from the King's visit to Erin. There was less deliberation also displayed than was threatened. There probably would have been less still had there not been keenly jealous supervision. However that may be, it has not lessened the admiration for the tact and tireless good-will with which the King performed his mission.

TOBACCO DEALERS HOLDING A PICNIC

Tobacco Dealers of This City And Other Centers, Enjoying An Outing Up the River.

This morning at 10:45, the members of the Rock County Tobacco Dealers' association, and their guests from other towns around Janesville went up the river for an outing and picnic. The dealers in this city have planned to give their guests a royal good time and to this end the steamer which carried the party up the river, carried also a good store of refreshments. As was expected, a large number were present at the picnic as the invitations had been extended to many outside the tobacco business. There were delegations from Orfordville, Madison, DeForest, Winslow, Broadhead, Stoughton, Evansville, and several other towns.

A good time was planned by those managing the picnic and there were baseball games this afternoon and card games for those who did not feel energetic enough for athletic sports. The first boat left the dock this morning at 10:45 and another at 12 this noon. The management of the picnic was left in the hands of John Southman of this city.

LINK AND PIN

CLOTHING STORE ROBBED IN NIGHT

Clothing Store of J. L. Ford & Son Broken Into Last Night and $80 Worth of Goods Stolen.

Sometime during the night, probably in the early hours of this morning, the clothing store of J. L. Ford & Son was broken into by robbers and goods valued at about ninety dollars were stolen. Entrance to the store was effected through the rear. A window in the tailor shop run in connection with the business, was broken. The burglars, however, were unable to get into the store immediately as the door leading to the store was locked, so they secured a coal shovel and tried to pry open the door. Falling in this they used the shovel as a chisel and chipped away the door near the lock, making a hole through the wood large enough to put a hand through. The lock on the door was then turned and the bolt slipped back.

Two suits of clothes, a suitcase, some underwear, two hats and a light overcoat and $130 in money were taken. The robbers left no clue. The two suits, one a tuxedo and the other ready made, were taken from a rack on which they were hung. The lock of the suitcases, which the thieves were evidently unable to open, was pried off and this was found on the floor in the store. Matches were strewn about on the floor.

The ready made suit was of brown material, size 40, with three button coat, the coat sleeves having two buttons. There were buttons also on the trousers' pockets. The other suit, a blue serge, was made similar to the brown clothes, but the trousers were a little lighter color than the coat and vest. The overcoat was a light gray garment, three-quarters length. The work seems to have been done by someone who had acquainted himself with the store before attempting the robbery and it is thought that the plan of the thieves was to leave town immediately after doing the job. Word of the robbery has been sent to police authorities in nearby towns.

HOSPITAL EXEMPTED FROM PAYING TAXES

Board of Review Has Decided That Mercy Hospital As Benevolent Institution Is Free From Taxation.

In closing its work yesterday morning the Board of Review of the city decided that Palmer Memorial Mercy hospital should be exempt from taxation on the grounds that the institution was a charitable institution, not run for profit. The ruling was made under section 1638 of the revised statutes, providing that the real estate of benevolent institutions, not owned or used for pecuniary purposes should be free from taxation. Previous testimony was given at the hearing when exemption was sought to the effect that the hospital was not conducted as a money-making proposition and all money secured over running expenses was devoted to developing the facilities of the hospital. The hospital authorities have cleared themselves of debt and are now working to secure funds to start the work on the erection of a modern $50,000 building and hope to have it up by fall.

The assessment of the property of the Janesville Electric company was lowered from $200,000 to $175,000. The change was made on the grounds that the first assessment was not according to law.

BARN DANCE IN PORTER WAS WELL ATTENDED

Many Edgerton People Were Present at Home of Thomas Ford—Other News of Interest.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton, July 12.—A barn dance held last night at Thomas Ford's place in Porter township brought out the largest gathering of young people from all sections of the country of any similar event ever held in this section. Young people of Edgerton and vicinity turned out one hundred strong, and all reported the occasion a big success. The Knott orchestra of Janesville furnished the inspiration. The new structure is fast nearing completion and ranks among the largest and most modern in this section.

Personal.
Mrs. G. Amundson returned this morning from Bryant, S. D., where she has been visiting relatives for the past six weeks.

Henry Woodcock went to Beloit this morning on business in the interest of the Edgerton Cigar company.

Miss Henrietta Lintved will entertain the Pigeonfaring, Thursday evening.

Allen and Donald Inam of Chicago are here to spend a few days with relatives.

John Jensen of Stoughton was brought before Justice Norton yesterday on the charge of drunkenness. He was fined $13, which he paid, and returned to his home.

L. J. Dickinson of the Tobacco Exchange bank went to Milwaukee this morning to attend the meeting of the State Bankers' convention. He is accompanied by his wife.

W. J. Schumacher has bought the Oran Carlson residence property in the second ward, paying $2,500 for the same.

L. A. Anderson, cashier of the First National bank, left for Milwaukee this morning to attend the meeting of the Bankers' association.

The Globe Amusement company are holding a five days' engagement here, occupying the vacant lot near the Heddesen lumber company.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN DIE AS TWO TOWNS BURN

Several Fatalities Occur When Au Sable and Oscoda, Mich., Are Wiped Out by Fire.

Day City, Mich., July 12.—Menger advices received here state that the towns of Au Sable and Oscoda were wiped out by fires originating in slab yards that were as dry as tinder from the long drought. Several women and children were suffocated to death in Au Sable and a large portion of the inhabitants of the two towns were taken to neighboring villages by steamer, which came to their rescue and a train of freight cars. Forest fires are raging along the line of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad from Au Sable to Cheboygan and a heavy rain is needed to prevent a possible great loss of life.

The fire at Cheboygan, where a huge mountain of sawdust, which has been burning for weeks, got beyond control, but it is not believed that there is danger to the city. Lewiston, Alger and Turner, all north of here, are in danger from forest fires.

Forty cars and two bridges on the Michigan Central near Grayling were burned.

A disastrous forest fire is sweeping Antrim and Oscoda counties, causing heavy loss. Passengers and crew on a Grand Rapids & Indiana train arriving at Boyne Falls ran through three miles of smoke and flames.

In the timbered section of Pleasant Lake grass fires have set fire to the forests. Much property has been destroyed.

Alpena, Mich., July 12.—A disastrous fire broke out here in the logs on the bank of Thunder Bay river, just west of the Moeckel tannery.

A fierce west wind spread the flames into the bark piles of C. Moeckel & Sons Co., thence to their lath house, lido house and carpenter shop, making a total loss of the buildings.

The fire then spread to the cedar yards of Frank Christian, totally destroying it. At this point, one of the city's fire engines was destroyed. Two residences were burned and others damaged. The property loss was estimated at $400,000.

LORD KITCHENER WILL MARRY.

"Woman Hater's" Surrender Astounds British Military Circles.

London, July 12.—Military and society circles of this city were given the shock of their life when they heard Lord Kitchener, who has always been regarded as a woman hater,

THREE FAVORITE WINNERS.

Grand Circuit Harness Races Are Opened at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, July 12.—A track heavy for paces and good for trotters marked the opening of the Grand Circuit races and the inaugural meet of its kind in Indianapolis.

Both the bookies and the pool sellers did a good business without any interference. The talent got away with three of the four events. The odds on favorites in the 2:18 pace, 2:20 and 2:15 trotts winning easy, but were dumped in bad style when the much-touted C. The Limit, got only fourth money in the 2:07 pace.

Summary, 2:18 Class—Pacing—Purse, $1,000. Fanny Stanton, won; Longworth, second; Nellie G., third. Best time, 2:10 1/4.

2:20 Class—Trotting—Stake, $2,500. Anvil, won; Nann, second; Jack Vassar, third. Best time, 2:10.

2:07 Class—Pacing—Purse, $1,000. Ginger, won; Ruth D., second; Sunny Jim, third. Best time, 2:06.

2:15 Class—Trotting—Purse, $1,000. R. T. C., won; Alva Dillon, second; Sue D., third. Best time, 2:12 1/2.

Trapped by a Woman

Mme. Yvonne Descaves was in despair. Her maid, the third one she had had during the short space of four months, had suddenly left when the mistress had told her that the silver spoons had not been cleaned well enough.

Mme. Descaves first burst into tears, but then she tied a clean dust rag around her golden hair and began to do the work herself.

Her husband was the travelling salesman of a jewelry firm in rue de la Paix and had gone to Paris to confer with his employers about a trip to Lyons and southern France. She was expecting him back at two o'clock, and must get his lunch ready for him.

It was almost noon when suddenly there was a loud knock at the door. Mme. Descaves saw two men in long coats and derby hats when she opened the door.

"Excuse me, madame," said the taller of the two, "you will have to let us in. I suppose you know who we are; otherwise I will tell you. We come from police headquarters and have a warrant for the arrest of M. Paul Descaves. We also have a warrant to search the house."

"A warrant," gasped Mme. Descaves, and the men took advantage of her confusion to push her aside and claim the door behind them.

"It must be a mistake! What is my husband accused of? He left me only three hours ago. I do not believe you," she said. "Show me your warrant."

"The tall man drew a paper half way out of his pocket and looked at his silent companion who grinned stupidly.

"Not the madame we saw him with at Autruil last Sunday—eh, Jean?" Mme. Descaves flushed with anger.

"How dare you? Let me pass. I want to call a policeman. I don't believe."

Jean took hold of her arm. The tall man went over to the telephone. "5000 Louvre," he said, and added, "Police headquarters." Mme. Descaves' last doubt disappeared.

"Police headquarters? This is Detective Laurent speaking. We are at Neuilly. Descaves is not here. What? You don't say?"

"Your husband has just been arrested at the Gare du Nord," he said, quietly turning to Mme. Descaves. "What is he accused of?" she sobbed.

"Embezzlement," the tall man replied. "Mme. Descaves suddenly grew calm. "Go and your duty," she said. "What do you expect to find?"

"Some missing jewelry," "Jewelry," Mme. Descaves exclaimed. "My husband's samples, I suppose."

The tall man nodded. "We will have a look at them." "They are in the safe upstairs. Here is the key."

Detective Laurent quickly opened the safe. Yes, the boxes were still there, and Mme. Descaves drew a sigh of relief when one of them was opened and showed its glistening contents.

Detective Laurent examined the diamond necklace critically. "Of course! Just as I thought," he exclaimed.

"What?" asked Mme. Descaves. "Imitation, paste," he grunted. "Nonsense," said Mme. Descaves. "I know what I am talking about," said Laurent.

"Perhaps it is because it is only a sample," he suggested. Laurent grunted.

"He got the real thing from Leverrier & Co., all right enough."

"Stop a moment," said Mme. Descaves, suddenly, and handed Laurent a bracelet with pearls and rubies. "Is this paste, too?" she asked.

Laurent looked at it. "Just like the rest of the lot," he replied, dryly.

Mme. Descaves said nothing more, but calmly surrendered the bracelet. "When they had emptied the safe, they all went downstairs."

"Caves," with tears in her voice. "You might as well know it all. I will not protect a man who has treated me like that. There are more diamonds."

"Where are they? Hurry up now, please."

"They are hidden—in the cellar," she gasped. "He thought they would be safe there."

"Show them to us. But no monkey business, now, or you'll be sorry."

Mme. Descaves laughed hysterically. "I shall not try any monkey business, as you call it," she replied, bitterly. "Oh! How I hate him now! Come along."

They followed her silently down the narrow cellar stairs.

"There they are—in the box in the corner."

They pushed her roughly aside and went in one of them striking a match. With a shriek Mme. Descaves slammed the door and turned the key. Then she ran upstairs and called for a policeman.

STRAIN AND WORRY CAUSE DEBILITY

Stomach Trouble, Uneasy Sleep, Nervousness, Little Energy, Etc., Are Symptoms—"Tona Vita" Brings Back Health.

The country is filled with half sick, worn out, nervous people. The cause is nervous debility and it is produced by the strain and worry of modern life.

The symptoms of nervous debility are stomach trouble, uneasy sleep, nervousness, little energy, or vitality, constipation, poor circulation, and memory, cold feet, weak back and inability to concentrate.

A man or woman afflicted with this debilitated condition has a little happiness, as the trouble always produces a mental depression that causes the sufferer to look on the gloomy side of life, and be dissatisfied with the present, and have small hope for the future.

Anything, to be successful, should add to the happiness of the human race. No medicine ever before sold in the United States has been so tremendously successful as the wonderful new tonic, "Tona Vita." The reason is plain. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of discouraged, "rundown" men and women.

Are you in this rundown, debilitated condition? Do you tire easily, sleep poorly? Feel half dead most of the time? If you are you can get immediate relief and renew your ability to fight life's battles by letting this great tonic build you up and restore your strength. Don't drag around feeling miserable and hopeless another day. You will positively be astonished how quickly "Tona Vita" will start you on the road to health. The tonic is sold with the distinct understanding that it must renew your health, or the price is refunded.

Lea's Thubarb Laxative is an assistant remedy to "Tona Vita." It is to be used in cases of chronic constipation. There is no plant known to modern medicine so thoroughly reliable and harmless as thubarb. It is nature's own laxative and instead of straining the intestines, gives them strength. Lea's Thubarb Laxative is the safest, most reliable laxative for children and they like the taste. It should be in every household.

TALLMAN CAPTURES WILSON LANE CUP

By Defeating Burns Brewer in Wonderful Display of Golf S. D. Tallman Takes Trophy—Establishes Record.

With a display of phenomenal golf, Stanley D. Tallman yesterday defeated Burns Brewer on the St. Louis Links in a thirty-six hole match and by this decisive victory won the Wilson Lane cup, to be his for the following year.

By a process of elimination Brewer and Tallman were matched to play the final rounds for the local trophy. With the score of yesterday the latter established the record for the links, his first round ending with a count of thirty-five. On this round he registered a defeat against "Cal. Hoge" at five different holes. Following is Tallman's results on the first round by holes: No. 1, 4; No. 2, 3; No. 3, 3; No. 4, 4; No. 5, 4; No. 6, 3; No. 7, 4; No. 8, 5; No. 9, 5; total, 35.

Owing to the dry weather the course was fast and the putting was difficult, which adds to the credit due to the winner. Tallman will retain the Lane cup for a year and will become the possessor of a medal which will remain permanently in his possession.

WHITE SOX DEFEATED THE CLINTON TIGERS

LABOR LEADERS ARE INDICTED.

Three Are Accused of Murder by Chicago Grand Jury.

Chicago, July 12.—Three of the "men higher up" were indicted for murder in connection with the slugging campaign of the plumbers against the steamfitters.

The leading "gunman," they are charged with having hired to slay Chicagoans at so much a head was also indicted for the second time.

The true bills were based upon the fatal shooting of Vincent Altman in the barroom of the Briggs hotel on March 22. The men indicted are:

Simon O'Donnell, president of the Chicago Building Trades council and business agent for the United Association of Plumbers.

Thomas Kearney, business agent for the United Association of Plumbers.

James Garvin, business agent for the United Association of Plumbers.

Mauroe Enright, nominal business agent for the Steamfitters' union associated with the United Association of Plumbers.

The indictments, charging the four men with murder and holding them without bond, were returned after an all day hearing of witnesses by the grand jury.

PACT VOTE BALKED BY BAILEY.

Forced to Talk Three Hours When Opponents Caught Napping.

Washington, July 12.—Only the interruption of a three-hour speech by Senator Bailey of Texas, and the submission of one of his amendments to the Canadian reciprocity bill prevented that measure from coming up for final vote in the senate. Opponents of the bill were caught napping by the senate leaders with no one ready to speak against the measure and no amendments ready to be offered.

After Senator Nelson made a point of no quorum and the insurgents had sent out a hurry call to absent colleagues, Senator Bailey, the chief Democratic opponent of the agreement, finally was forced to take the floor and offer his amendment to attach the farmers' free list bill recently passed by the house to the reciprocity measure. His amendment, which was not voted on, omitted the agricultural provisions of the free list bill.

Most True. Not all the lip can speak is worth the silence of the heart.—J. Q. Adams.

SHORT ONE MILLION BY SPECULATION

PEAVEY OFFICIALS DECLARE CHICAGO HEAD LOST MONEY THROUGH SPECULATION.

DID NOT PERSONALLY PROFIT

Banks Are Assured That All Obligations, Both of Grain Firm and Dead President Will Be Promptly Met.

St. Paul, Minn., July 12.—A statement issued by F. H. Peavey & Co., the parent of a dozen subsidiary companies, and which owns the stock of the Peavey Grain company of Chicago, declares that James Pettit, president and general manager of the latter concern, who was drowned at Chicago July 8, was short approximately $1,000,000.

The statement was issued from the Minneapolis office, after a conference with representatives of Minneapolis and Chicago banks and commercial paper houses of Chicago holding notes floated by Mr. Pettit in the name of the Peavey Grain company. The statement says in part:

Company Announces Shortage.

"On Saturday afternoon, July 8, following the death of James Pettit, a representative of F. H. Peavey & Co., who had been sent to Chicago to assist in the office of the Peavey Grain company during Mr. Pettit's illness, discovered that certain unauthorized and concealed speculations had been going on in the business, which subsequent investigation proved will result in a shortage of approximately $1,000,000.

Mr. Pettit has apparently in no way profited by these speculations, and they were carried on absolutely contrary to the instructions and without knowledge of F. H. Peavey & Co., and in direct violation of the well known policy of the Peavey company."

F. H. Peavey Company Not Affected. "We wish it understood," said Vice-President Wells, "that neither F. H. Peavey & Co. nor any of its subsidiaries is directly affected in this matter. The company never deals in grain, and, in fact, the only brokerage business we ever did was through the Chicago house of which Mr. Pettit was in charge."

"Now that Mr. Pettit's credit is gone we will close down. The question which remains is whether the holding company will shoulder the burden of the shortage."

May Exhume Pettit's Body. Chicago, July 12.—Following the discovery of a million dollar shortage in the accounts of James Pettit, president of the Peavey Grain company, insurance companies which carried large risks on Pettit that were not payable in the event of his suicide, started a searching investigation which, it was declared, might lead to a demand for the exhumation of the body of the dead broker.

Speculation on the board of trade is said to have been the cause of Pettit's shortage, most of the money to meet the losses having been obtained from various banks which made advances on notes of the Peavey Grain company, signed by James Pettit as president, and which in some cases were secured by collateral securities belonging to the grain company of which he was president, but in other cases secured only by Pettit's personal signature and the grain company's liability.

Banks Assured Protection.

Among the banks which advanced large sums of money to Pettit were the First National of Chicago and the Corn Exchange National bank. Officers of these banks received assurances from the directors of the Peavey Grain company that all liabilities would be met, whether they were those of the company or Pettit's personal obligations. Most of this money is believed to have been lost in an attempt to corner the oats market about two years ago, when Pettit and George W. Marcy were suspended from the board of trade for one day for their manipulation of the market.

UPSET KOCH'S PLAGUE THEORY.

Royal Commission Finds Tuberculosis in Man and Beast Identical.

London, July 12.—After investigations extending over ten years the royal commission on tuberculosis, appointed in the first year of King Edward's reign, issued its final report.

The report shows that, contrary to the theory of Dr. Koch, who declared in 1901 that tuberculosis in human beings and cows was not the same disease and therefore not communicable from one to the other, both forms of the malady are for all practical purposes identical.

There may be minute differences in the bacilli, but the royal commission pronounced decisively that children can be and are infected by milk from diseased cows.

A NEW EXTENSION.
Commercial and international aspects of the isthmian canal have been so largely the consideration in the discussion touching benefits to be derived, that another feature, scarcely less significant, has been overlooked by many interested in the waterway. The question of settling the Pacific coast country is still an open one. With a population of a little more than 2,000,000, California, to instance one of the states, has room for many more. From Alaska southward rich areas offer every inducement to settlers. Workers are wanted there, and, had not this been the case there would have been no such persistent effort by the Asiatics to enter the country in large numbers. The bulk of European immigration does not reach us far west as the Pacific states. The great distance from Atlantic seaports may not unreasonably be considered a cause.
With the opening of the Panama canal a new transportation factor enters. It may play a most conspicuous part in the settlement of the Pacific coast. Ships from Europe will make the other side of the continent in quick order by using the new waterway. If the overland journey be dispensed with, taking with it a large item of cost, no doubt many immigrant grants could be induced to go to the Pacific west. It is very clear that European labor will never attempt to crowd into the Asiatic countries where overpopulation is even now a serious problem. Since the general movement, therefore, is likely to continue toward America, it is not difficult to believe that the Pacific coast will in time receive a much larger proportion of the whole, especially when every facility is made available for peopling the states.
What has been said in relation to the United States may perhaps be applied also to Central and South America. Heretofore the east coast has received the larger number of the migrants from southern Europe. A more even distribution would probably be welcomed by the Latin-American nations which need many more millions for the development of their virgin territories.
Population is a source of strength to any nation. As the Pacific coast country becomes more closely settled, each settlement in itself will be a protection. The domination of the great sea by a single power, a prophecy which still seems of some concern to many, will be less and less plausible when California has more millions as citizens. Had the Golden state been crowded with people, Asiatic labor would hardly have thought it worth while to get in. For this reason, again, the Panama canal seems to point a way whereby immigration can follow the line of least resistance and make the canal of more than military or commercial importance.

One could almost wish that the coal scuttle had had gone out before the hot skirt came in, but perhaps it is best as it is. Let us hope, however, they will not next to name them for pots and pans next.

Of The Same Mind.
Machine Times: Daniel Guggenheim insists that there are too many investigations. If he wants real sympathy on this score he can get it by applying to Senator Lorimer.
Coming To Us.
Fond du Lac Reporter: According to Madison dispatches the German government has ordered 3,000 bushels of Wisconsin pedigree seed corn. This is only another indication of the real quality of the Badger State products.
Real Harmony.
Marquette Eagle-Star: Mr. Bryan positively declares that Governor Harmon "won't do." And Governor Harmon emphatically responds "The same to you, Colonel," and many of them." Such is party harmony among our Democratic brethren.
Rah! Rah! Vastar.
Oshkosh Northwestern: A Chicago girl who won 1,000 shares of mining stock in a foot race held at Oaklawn three years ago, has been informed that the stock is now worth $70,000. The young woman was educated at Vassar, where she made her start in athletics, and naturally she thinks her education was "worth while."
May Be Expected.
Madison State Journal: Great Britain and the United States have practically agreed upon a general arbitration treaty. The treaty is apparently unobjectionable, but some doubtful statesman at Washington is liable to rise at any moment with a threatening sundance or a motion to investigate.
Cool Reception.
Wausau Record-Herald: The Irish lady King George and Queen Mary a welcome and incidentally mentioned the fact that the Irish wanted home rule and want it soon. The reception to the royal pair by the Irish was not conspicuous by its cordiality.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Cipriano Castro is in Venezuela with 1,000 men and a whole lot of ambition. We may expect large doings in that vicinity presently. Cip can start more trouble to the square inch than any man in South America.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE

WILL MONEY BUY IT?
We are to have a new national anthem.
A prize of half a million dollars, "contributed," will be paid for a national song that shall "officially" take the place of "The Star Spangled Banner."
So?
It is true "The Star Spangled Banner" goes up above B and down below middle C and no one but a prima donna can successfully render it without risk of cracking the voice.
But—
Will money buy the song?
Will money buy anything really worth while? A real song is a message from the heart to the heart. It may limp in its lines, and the tune may be raggedly inept, but if it is a real message it must have been born out of deep emotions stirred to their depths by some great crisis.
That is how "The Star Spangled Banner" came to be:
Francis Scott Key was a prisoner aboard a British ship, and real bombs were "bursting in air." Would he see by the dawn's early light what so proudly we hallooed at the twilight's last gleaming?
"The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was written under like pressure.
The stirringly beautiful but terrible hymn, with its martial swing and spirit, was born in the soul of Julia Ward Howe as she heard the tramp of the troops on Virginia soil. Its stately and heroic sentences could have been written only by a daughter of the Puritans in an atmosphere of 1861-5.
Money buy such a song?
No more than it will buy a Greek statue or a lyric of Sappho.
Do you fancy a prize could have wrong from the heart of Robert de Lisle the tremendous, doom driven, liberty loving, lines of the "Marseillaise"?
Why, the anthem of 1793 will sound through it forever!
Is it any wonder when an unfortunate man, condemned to the gallows, was able to prove that he had added a verse to the great marching song he was let go?
A great national song is the record of heartbeat of a people in a great crisis. It may be an echo of clashing arms, of death and destruction, but there breathes through it a prophecy of a coming better day.
Some time, when the era of universal peace shall come, we shall have a great national song of peace, a song which shall realize the poet's dream of furled battleflags and silent war drums.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY
By A. W. Macy.
A NOSE TAX.
In the ninth century, when the Danes were managing things in Ireland, much to the disgust of the natives, they imposed a yearly tax of one ounce of gold on each Irish householder, the non-payment of which was to be punished by having the nose slit. Irishmen have never been noted for wealth, and gold is almost as scarce as snakes in the Emerald Isle. Consequently the tax was a great burden, and the majority of householders were unable to pay it. The delinquent tax list soon became something formidable, and it seemed as though Ireland would soon become a nation of slit-noses. The people stood it for thirteen years, and then rose in their wrath and massacred many of their oppressors. The others took the hint and the odious law was repealed.

I leased a house in Easy street, where babies rule and reign, and I soon I beat retreat and ran back to Poor Man's Lane. With Easy street men always jesting near, but old head-bobbing heads, I couldn't stand the atmosphere—I reeked of greasy scents, I longed to talk of Sappho's verses, of fingers loved and lost; they showed me through their stately homes and told how much they cost. "This painting cost 10,000 homes, that statue cost a pile; my butter, there, whose name's De Jones, I brought from Britton's Isle. The desk you look at is no desk—indeed it is with pearl; this painted person is a duke, who's come to wed my girl." And so they talked, these wealthy zugs, of money and of marks; and they had greenbacks in their eyes, and buttons in their hearts. And so I said: "This sort of talk has given me a pain; I'll don my overalls and walk clear back to Poor Man's Lane. There men discuss the baseball game, the latest yellow crime, a chimney in a new frame, a porch by Oppenheim. There men are human, and the boys can talk of same affairs; they are not dancing to the noise of bughouse bells and bears."

SAME OLD STORY
From Salt Lake City Republican, June 20, 1911.
"Indignant over an attempt of the Bell Telephone Company this morning to raise its rates throughout the Tintic district, 200 business men of Eureka passed resolutions at a mass meeting here, tonight serving notice upon the company that unless the increase is cancelled the telephones will be taken from every business house and residence in this district and a new independent company organized at once for local service. Committees were appointed to probe the local telephone situation and to report on the probable cost of an independent system. Notice of increase from $3 a month to $5 a month, for business phones, and from $2 a month to $3 a month for residence phones, individual service, was made by the local branch office of the Bell company early this morning. The resolution carrying the threat to the Bell company was drafted amid great enthusiasm and was carried without a dissenting vote. Being in the mood to assert their rights the business men also decided to look into the telephone rates between Tintic points and Salt Lake, which they declared are beyond reason, and to take such action as is found necessary to protect themselves, against outrageous tolls. For this purpose C. E. Huish, Ralph Badger, C. J. Fennell, D. J. Russell and Leonard T. Scofield, were appointed as an investigating committee "which will also report as to the practicability of a new local system."

HOPKINS ARRAIGNED FOR ALLEGED THEFT*IN ROSSEBO SALOON

Man Arrested Last Night Pleaded Not Guilty in Municipal Court This Afternoon and Examination Was Set for Monday.

John Hopkins, charged with the theft of twenty-two dollars in money from the saloon of Thomas Rossebo, 14 South River street, last night, was arraigned in municipal court this afternoon at half past two and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He asked for a preliminary examination and this was set for Monday morning at ten o'clock. Bond was fixed at $500, which Hopkins expected he could raise, or could get two bondsmen.

Hopkins was arrested last night by Officer Patrick Fleming in a saloon on South River street and locked up in the police station over night.

The robbery was noticed some time between nine and ten o'clock when Mr. Rossebo was about to leave the saloon for the night. The leather sack in which the money was placed was kept in a drawer in the back bar near the cash register.

Suspicion was at once directed toward Hopkins as he was the only one to go back of the bar in the evening, according to John Wink, bartender, who was in charge of the saloon at the time the robbery is thought to have been committed. Hopkins had been in the place several times during the day, Wink says, and around nine o'clock came into the place again. Wink was called into a room at the rear of the saloon and just as he started back toward Hopkins told him he was going to get a chew of tobacco, for that purpose being kept in a drawer next to the one in which the money was kept. When Wink returned to the saloon a minute or two later Hopkins was gone, but nothing was thought of the occurrence. A search was begun when the robbery was discovered. Mr. Rossebo and Officer Patrick Fleming starting out to find the man. Several places on South River street were visited and Hopkins was found in a saloon. He was searched in the saloon and again a search of his clothes was made at the police station, some twenty-one dollars in nickels, dimes, quarters and dollars being taken from his three pockets in his clothes. A receipt for beer, but neither the bag nor the receipt were found on Hopkins. A flask of whiskey was also taken from Hopkins.

The bag and the beer receipt were, however, picked up this morning near the Leary blacksmith shop on Dodge street, where it is thought they were dropped by Hopkins. The police believe the bills were used to purchase liquor.

One of the half dollars taken from Hopkins had two nickels in it, apparently made with a file. This was identified by Mr. Rossebo as part of the money in the bag and this morning in the police station he said that the coin was the police station one which he had put in the sack in the saloon, as he had looked at it about four o'clock yesterday afternoon, fearing that it might be counterfeit.

The police state that Hopkins has been mixed up in two previous affairs of the kind and that once he was caught with the goods on him and arrested, but released because the victim refused to prosecute after he had got the money back. The prisoner is a Scotchman about forty-five years of age and has an impediment in his speech.

REV. HOFFMEISTER WILL BE INSTALLED

Pastor of English Lutheran Church Will Be Installed Next Tuesday Evening, July 18—Address by Rev. R. B. Anderson.

Tuesday evening, July 18, at 7:45, the new pastor of St. Peter's English Evangelical Lutheran church, the Rev. E. O. Hoffmeister will be installed. The ceremony will be in charge of the Rev. Wm. Eckert of Racine, who will also preach the sermon.

It is expected that other pastors from neighboring cities will assist in the services. Mr. Hoffmeister has been in charge of the local church since Palm Sunday and he and his wife are greatly admired by the people of the congregation.

The many friends of Mrs. Hoffmeister, who has been seriously ill at the home of her parents in Chicago, will be pleased to learn that she is improving, and will be able to return home in a few weeks.

SCHOOL BOARDS AND TEACHERS TOGETHER

Afternoon Session of School Board Meeting to be Held in Training School Quarters.

At the request of Superintendent J. J. Lowth, principal of the training school, the afternoon session of the school board meeting, to be held in this city tomorrow, will be transferred from the court house to the high school building. This is so that the members of the school boards and the teachers to be may come in closer contact and get better acquainted.

About two hundred and fifty of the members of the several school boards of the county will be in the city tomorrow morning to attend what promises to be one of the most beneficial of its kind ever held. The morning session will be held in the court house and the afternoon session in the high school building.

PROMOTION FOLLOWS CHANGING OF FIELD

Capt. Fleming, Promoted to Ensign—Will Take Up Work at Sault, Ste. Marie, Mich.

Captain Fleming of the Salvation Army, who is soon to leave this city for other fields, in receipt of a communication from Lieut. Col. Stephen Marshall, stationed at Minneapolis, telling of his promotion from Captain to Ensign, Mrs. Fleming and the Captain will soon leave for Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., where they will take charge of the work there.

Captain and Mrs. Fleming will take up the work of Capt. Fleming in this city. They will open their campaign in Janesville with a welcome meeting on Wednesday, July 12th. On this day or the one following Capt. Fleming will take up his new duties at the new place and will celebrate with a similar meeting there.

The office of ensign is a national one and is higher than that of captain. The promotion is largely due to the work of the captain in securing the establishment of the unit in the army on such a substantial footing.

JANESVILLE MAN IN NORTHERN ASYLUM

Joe Teichmann Committed to Hospital for Insane at Oshkosh From Manitowoc Yesterday.

A man giving his name as Joe Teichmann and claiming Janesville as his home, was taken from the river at Manitowoc on Saturday night after attempting suicide, and lodged in the city lockup at Manitowoc. Later he was examined as to his sanity and yesterday morning was sent to the Northern Hospital for the Insane at Oshkosh. Word to this effect was received at the local police headquarters from the chief of police George Greifmiller of Manitowoc, who sought information regarding the man. Teichmann, a man, or Teichmann claimed, his mother resided in this city. The man also has a brother, John Teichmann, a harness-maker, who resides at 721 Eastern avenue. He also has a brother working in a pocketbook factory in West Bend.

Teichmann is a man about five feet ten inches in height, of a heavy build with light hair and smooth shaven face. Information concerning the relatives living here was sent to the police department at Manitowoc today.

A DANGEROUS BLAZE PUT OUT BY SCOUTS

Five of Janesville's Boy Scouts Show That They are Ready for Emergencies And Put Out A Growing Blaze.

Five of the Boy Scouts showed that they were living up to their motto, "Be Prepared," yesterday when they put out a fire at a swimming place where a fire started in the long grass near the river. Although it was not a very serious blaze to begin with, driven by the wind it was approaching a number of boat houses located on the bank, in which was stored a quantity of gasoline. If it had reached these, much damage might have resulted. However, the boys saw the danger, and attacking the flames with wet implements they could find, soon put it out. By their very prompt and effective action, the boys, Charles Maine, Phillip O'Donnell, Byron Coleman, Will Felra and Ross Lowrey, showed that they were ready, and, therefore were good Boy Scouts.

CHURCH WAS SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

Miss Esther Connell and John J. Templeton Wedded This Morning.

The wedding of Miss Esther Connell to John J. Templeton both well known in this city was celebrated at St. Patrick's church in seven o'clock this morning. Rev. Jas. J. McGinnity officiating. Miss Grace Connell acted as bridesmaid and Frank Ryan was best man.

The bride was attired in pink marquisette over pink silk and wore a black hat and the bridesmaid was dressed in tan flowered silk. After the ceremony at the church the wedding party went to the home of the bride's mother Mrs. Mary Connell, 216 Lincoln street, where a reception was held and a wedding breakfast was served.

The young couple left at noon, going by automobile to Milton, where they took the train for Chicago. They will spend about a week in Chicago and Milwaukee and upon their return will take up their residence in the Fredendall flats where they will be at home to their friends after August 15.

In addition to the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties in this city the following from out of town were present: Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Rooney, of Appleton, cousins of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kilne of Beloit.

Deavor-Seltz. Walter Seltz of this city was united in marriage on July 3 to Miss Beavor of Johnsons Creek, the ceremony being performed in the Catholic church at Jefferson. The affair was kept quiet and was known to only a few friends of the young people. The groom is a draftsman employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and has many friends here. The bride has visited in the city a number of times and is well known here. Mr. and Mrs. Seltz will reside at 325 Center avenue.

Small Blaze: The department was called out the third time this afternoon at three o'clock to the Ashcraft furniture store in a building owned by the Ashcraft estate. The blaze had caught from a rubbish fire. It was extinguished with the use of chemicals. Damage amounted to about ten dollars.

LITTLE BOY MAY GO TO SPARTA SCHOOL

Three Year Old Francis Schumann Will Have Case Acted Upon in County Court Soon.

Whether little Francis Schumann, three years old, will be committed to the school for dependent children at Sparta, or whether he will find a home in some family in Janesville, is a question which will be decided within a few days. Trouble came into the family about one year ago and the mother and father, Otto Schumann, and the mother were separated. Since that time, the mother and the child have had a hard time to get along and recently appealed to the county poor commissioner for aid.

It is alleged that the father does not feel that he wants to take the child and the mother does not feel that she can do it. Therefore the appeal to the authorities. The case was brought into the county court yesterday but owing to the fact that the child showed some symptoms of the measles, the case was put over for a few days.

Schumann, since his separation, has been in bad repute several times and has been taken into court on one or two charges. At one time he was charged with making away with a typewriter and was taken into court and fined. He says that he now has a position as principal of a school in Clinton, Iowa.

Several persons, upon hearing of the plight of the little boy, have investigated and expressed themselves as willing to adopt him.

Mrs. L. S. Best is taking a short vacation from her duties at the Public Library.

Miss Gertrude Van Beynum and Miss Alice Eaton have gone to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for a three weeks' outing.

FIRE IN HAY FIELD. ENDANGERS FARM

Sparks From Locomotive Thought to be the Cause—Farm Buildings Threatened—Loss Small.

Fire in a hay field on the farm of H. Maltby in South Janesville threatened yesterday to do serious damage to his hay crop as well as to his farm buildings. It is believed that the fire started from sparks dropped by a passing locomotive and the extremely dry condition of the grass helped to render the danger of its spreading more serious. If it were not for the timely arrival of Mr. Maltby and others at the scene of the fire it is very likely that some or all of the buildings on his place would have been destroyed. The fire was confined to a few piles of fence posts, some of the standing fence around the field and the grass in the field, all of which would be covered by a very small sum.

DR. J. S. KIRLEY

HIS LONG APPRENTICESHIP.

From the cradle to his career, is a good long time, about 25 years, and there is seldom found a boy who reaches that long wait. It is not that he is jealous of the other animals for getting through growing and down to business so much sooner than he does, when he and they start out together—kids, colts, cats, calves and puppies—and he sees several generations of the same animal family make their entrance and exit, while he is merely fighting his way to the stage. The lion and the tiger are mature at six, the horse earlier, the cow earlier still, the sheep at from one to two years; the amoeba and other insects in a few days and some of them are born, mature, finish their lives and die, all in one day. This lightning change in them does not always stimulate his patience. He sees the vast opportunities before him and is sure they will all be gone by the time he gets a chance at them, and, anyhow, it looks to him just the thing to be a grown man. There are a good many things he enjoys as a boy, but they are insignificant compared with the good times he will have when he is grown and can show people how to do things.

But if a boy proceeds more leisurely than the other animals, it is not time wasted, for when they are through he is starting in on a career that will outlast the stars, a career of which the three score years of the life here are only the overture; and, because they are only the overture, and therefore to strike the theme of the whole eternal symphony, he has to have plenty of time to tune up, get his part and do some rehearsing. The elephant may outlive him, but he is closer akin to the angels than to the elephant; the mud turtle may outlast him, but he is more like a sky lark to wing his way into the infinite. It takes a long time to get ready for a long career. The greatest man the world has even known took 30 years to prepare for only three years of work, but all the ages to come were to be affected by those three years. The very greatest man in all the centuries, before that matchless One did life work in 40 years, becoming a nation's leader and the world's law giver, but he could not have done it if he had not had 80 years to prepare for it. Goethe wrote the latter part of his Faust in old age, but it was the ripe flower of his many years of culture. "The longer infancy is the chief explanation of the longer age of man, for it secures to him both the bodily and the psychological requisites of the longer life, while it is just the chance he needs to get himself ready to make it an efficient life."

The development of a child is one of the greatest social processes we know anything about, and from that standpoint, John Flax has given the long human infancy its scientific interpretation. All that time he is doing things, through the things that are done for him; and what he does, in that way, is perhaps the very best thing he ever does. It seems that he is the one for whom things are done, but he is doing for others a work that will tell on them and society for all time to come. Perhaps he is achieving his very greatest task in fulfilling that long and, often tedious, apprenticeship. Interest centers on him as an individual, but we come to see that the most striking thing about him is his social significance.

His most marked contribution is to the family sociality, but that does not limit his influence. He promotes parental unity. The planning and working and loving bestowed on a common object, so fascinating as he is, produces a unity with an element that nothing else can supply. And if there should be in them tendencies toward division, this may divert their minds and prevent permanent cleavage; and, by the time they have taken him through, from infancy to manhood, caring and planning for him and giving him an education and a start in life, the habits of co-operation will have become fixed enough to carry them along without his further aid. By that time, he will have trained them in self-discipline, for many a father is kept from a less worthy life by the thought of his boy or his little girl. There is a sociality as between the parents on the one side and the children on the other; also between the children themselves, and nature has given him time to make good in both tasks. Other children and other homes are the beneficiaries of his life opportunity for a long service, in a social way.

But his long childhood is just the thing for his own education, not only in a general way, but in some of the powers, especially needed in the future. One is altruism; and a long period of service, for which there is no scale of rewards, is the best way for him to learn it.

He grows in the power of choice, as, at the right moment, he takes himself over, so that by the time he passes from under their direction he has himself in control, with far-reaching relationships established. He has his moral habits formed and fixed by the time he must face moral issues and decide them alone. Let the boy be happy, rather than grieved, because of his long apprenticeship.

DEATH OF J. W. GATES EXPECTED AT ANY HOUR

Condition of American Financier Is Admitted by Attending Physicians to Be Critical.

Paris, July 12.—Physicians in attendance upon John W. Gates, the American financier, declare their patient is critically ill. He has been steadily growing weaker for a number of days and his condition has been so alarming that his friends believe that the end is not far away.

The arrival of Charles G. Gates, who hastened here to his father's bedside from New York, appeared to cheer the elder Gates, and the physicians at first were hopeful of noting some sign of real improvement in the patient. A reaction soon set in, however, and the latest bulletins from the sick man's room are more discouraging than at any time since Mr. Gates was stricken ill.

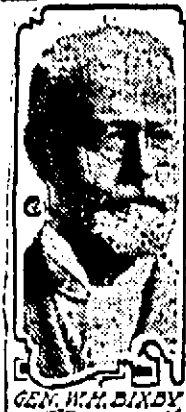

Mr. Gates is taking little nourishment, and his prolonged illness is sapping his vitality. He continues to fight determinedly, and doctors say this spirit has helped him much in the last three or four days.

Professor Roger, an eminent specialist, is in daily consultation with Doctor Gros, Mr. Gates' regular physician. In addition, they have had frequent consultations with Professor Wadell, one of the most famous specialists in Europe.

Charles Gates, when asked about his father's condition, shook his head and merely replied:

"My father is a very sick man, but we hope he will show signs of improvement soon. Everything possible is being done for him, and the doctors tell me he has a chance."

Universalist Y. P. C. U. Convenes. Portland, Me., July 12.—The national convention of the Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist church has brought to this city a large number of men and women from all parts of the country. Today they have been getting acquainted and making pleasure trips on Casco Bay. Tonight the convention will be opened formally by President Hicknell. The sessions close Sunday evening and for the next three days the visitors will be entertained with excursions, clam bakes and a trip to the White Mountains.

SAYS MAINE WAS BLOWN UP FROM INSIDE

General Dixie, in Charge Of The Raising Of The Maine

Washington, D. C. The climax of Spain that she did not blow up the battleship Maine, have been fully substantiated by the report of General Dixie, chief engineer in charge of the raising of the Maine. His investigations have shown conclusively that the explosion occurred from within the ship and could not, under any conditions, have been the result of a mine placed under the Maine. This report will have much to do with the future history of the Spanish-American war, in view of the fact that the blowing up of the Maine was the deciding event which brought the United States face to face with the reality and precipitated the war.

The Sleep of Children.

There is no physiological reason for concluding that either the night or the morning sleep is the more healthful. Children are, generally, night sleepers, nevertheless there are children who, after they reach their third year, sleep in the morning. If a child sleeps late, there is no reason for anxiety as long as his sleep is calm and of adequate length.

Needs of the Church.

"What is the greatest evil to be remedied in the modern church?" is a question which a Topeka minister asked a lot of business men. One replied: "Make the women take off their hats and fix the seats so that men can sleep in greater comfort."—Kansas City Journal.

Made the Dream True.

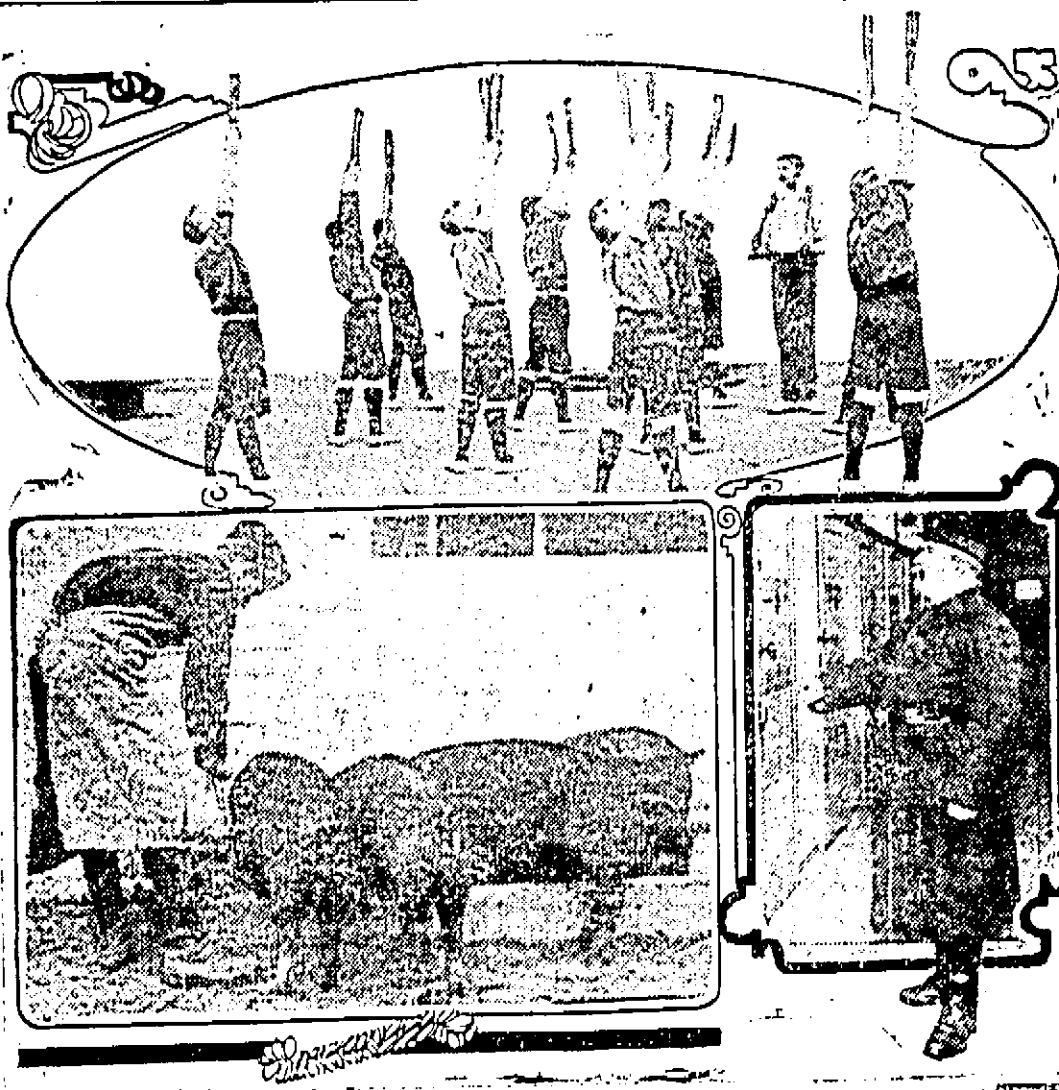

A Blackburn (Eng.) man has proved himself a strong believer in dreams. A few nights ago his young son dreamt that he saw his father run over by a motor wagon, and next day the man, after writing on a piece of paper, "My child's dream," threw himself in front of a motor wagon and was killed.

Why She Chose the Gown.

A woman in Cherryvale, Kan., was allowed her choice between a new parlor rug and a summer gown. The Journal says that after three sleepless nights she decided on the dress. She argued: "I can darken the parlor and the rug will look all right in subdued light, and besides, hundreds of folks will see the dress who would never see the rug."

Forgiveness of Children.

It is the sweet and untiring forgiveness of children, who ask pity for their sorrows from those who have caused them, who do not perceive that they are wronged, who never dream that they are forgiving, and who make no bargain for apologies—it is this that men and women are urged to learn of a child.—Alma Meynell.

REFORMING CRIMINALS IN ENGLAND.

Pictures taken at the Borstal institutions provided by the state for the reformatory treatment of young people between 16 and 21 years of age. Pictures show them in gymnasium drill, caring for the hops at the Borstal pig farm, and locked in their rooms at night. A unique feature of their rooms is that by pushing a button an occupant can signal for the keeper, who will come to his cell at once. Each room on the corridor is provided with a lever arrangement by which every cell door can be opened simultaneously in case of fire.

Austrian Red Tape.

At Kopist, near Bruck, in January last a miner named Bruck risked his life in saving a boy from drowning. His heroic action cost him a severe cold, resulting in a long sickness. On the advice of friends, he appealed to the authorities for some assistance. After a delay of several weeks he received an answer informing him that he had been fined one crown because he had omitted to place the proper stamp on his petition for help. Austrian red tape could scarcely go further.—Prague correspondence Pall Mall Gazette.

Why He Had Come.

"Is Mr. Rockingham in?" asked the railway president, who had just entered the anteroom. "Yes," replied the office boy. "Do you want to see him?" "Oh, no—no, not at all. I don't care to see him. I have come here solely for the purpose of having a pleasant little visit with you."

A Moving Land.

One of the broad slopes of Mont Grignon, France, is reported to have become detached from its foundations, and to have moved over a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile, carrying with it the soil, meadows and woods, and bridges that stood in the way. A chestnut grove has traveled 500 feet without suffering any apparent damage, but many small lakes have been formed by the damming of the waters. —Scientific American.

"IT WAS A WONDERFUL THING THAT FIRST KISS."—Mrs. Felicia Blake Reese. Mrs. Felicia Blake Reese in witness chair at See trial and the lips of her daughter, Mona Reese which seem to have attracted See so strongly.

Chicago, Ill.—The testimony of Mrs. Felicia Blake Reese in the Evelyn Arthur See trial was most unusual. It seemed more like the testimony of a school girl than the testimony of a middle-aged mother. In her testimony Mrs. Reese frankly admits that she was kissed by See and further in her testimony she states "It was a wonderful thing, that first kiss."

Her testimony only further complicated the strange teachings of the "Book of Life" which seems to be based on the theory that "to the pure all things are pure." Mona Reese on the witness stand also admitted the fact that See had been in the habit of greeting her with a kiss and the evidence seems to show that this was a general custom among the Absolute Livers.

Your Money's Worth

Even people with lots of money want and expect full value when they spend it. It is only natural to demand your money's worth.

Housewives who do their cooking on Gas Ranges get back one hundred cents for every dollar they lay out. And they don't have to lay out many dollars because the first cost of the Gas Range is not high and the consumption of Gas is small in proportion to the result attained.

There is NO waste, with ordinary care, when you cook with Gas. You get your money's worth.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

DO YOU ever see trees?

Really "see," I mean, not merely "look at." It seems to me that trees are one of the wonderfully lovely things in nature, whose beauty few of us appreciate.

No many people confine their admiration and enjoyment to the conventional. They rave about sunsets and sunrises—if they ever get up early enough to see them—and flowers and vast woodland vistas, because everyone admires such things. But equally wonderful, though less obvious and conventional beauties, such as an individual tree, for instance, or a wonderful cloud effect, they never notice at all.

How many men and women there are who couldn't tell you what kind of trees they pass on their way down town or to work, or even what kind of trees grow in front of their homes. They just haven't thought them worth looking at.

And yet, can you think of anything more lovely than a white birch tree standing slim and tall and straight, like a beautiful young girl, with every leaf a quivering in the wind like the shimmering and fluttering of her garments?

Can you think of anything more gratifying to the eye than the symmetry of a perfectly symmetrical maple? Can you think of any more inspiring symbol of industry and sturdiness and dignity than a towering pine or fir or a giant redwood tree?

Do you know any better example of exquisite grace than a young willow?

A perfect tree seems to me one of the most wonderful things that God ever made.

There used to be a marvellously perfect maple tree in my line of vision from my study window. It towered well above the three-story house it stood beside, and when I was tired it was a real rest to me to watch it toss its green branches against the pale blue of the sky. I think almost everyone in the neighborhood loved that tree.

Eight months ago a new owner of the property chopped that maple down because "it littered up the yard too much."

I almost turned socialist the day that tree was slain, in my rebellion against a system that makes it possible for a man who could not appreciate that beauty to own and destroy it.

Trees seem to me more individual and human than anything else in nature. No wonder the old Saxons endowed them with souls and worshipped them. Isn't it almost impossible to think that that tall elm tree that has grown up with your family and now stands on stately guard over your house, or that gnarled apple tree that has welcomed two generations of clambering youngsters into its rheumatic old arms has no individuality?

It seems so to me.

Teach your children to know the different kinds of trees, teach them to realize that trees are quite as lovely as flowers, get them interested in these beautiful mute servants of man's comfort and pleasure, and you will have given them a lifelong heritage of interest and enjoyment.

In Cupid's Realm.

The Husband Who Gives Things Instead of Himself.

IN a story that created a good deal of comment, a year or so ago, a wife rebelled at the little real share she had in her husband's life. He was a successful business man, and he poured into her lap all the possible luxuries. But of himself, he gave little. And as she was not intelligent, thinking woman, she rebelled at this. She wanted him, not motors and palaces and pearl necklaces.

Many another husband is making this same mistake; not in degree, perhaps, but in kind. And it is the cause of much unhappiness in married life.

The woman who is of a dull nature, who cares only for jewels and fine clothes and a luxurious home, will be content with these. But the woman to whom such things are not the realities of life cannot be content when they are given her as her all. Her heart starves.

And yet this is what many a man after a few years of married life comes to, often with the best of intentions. He is so anxious to give his wife all the beautiful things that he sees other men's wives possessing that he becomes absorbed in money-making. He does not realize that instead of making her happy, he is making her unhappy; and when she does not seem sufficiently appreciative of what he has strived to secure for her, he, too, is disappointed. And thus misunderstanding grows.

Other men become absorbed through the fascination of the game, and they think the prizes they win and give their wives should be sufficient recompense for the loss of their companionship. They cannot understand that this is not so. They cannot comprehend the wife's complaint that she married a man and not a money-making machine, and that she still wants the man and not the machine.

In these days of lust for money, it is the habit of the cartoonist and joke-makers to represent all women as on a mad hunt for a rich husband, or as being the motive power behind the throne that keeps the husband grinding at the money-mill. But this is by no means true in all cases. And many a woman, lonely and heart-sick in a handsome home, would gladly exchange all her luxury for some simpler way of living and the companionship of her husband. And the more intelligent the woman, the more is this true of her. With the woman who thinks and feels, the things of the world count little, and things of the spirit, much.

It would be well for men to consider this a little more, both the men who are slaving their lives away to give their wives what they think they want, and also those men who think they cannot marry because they cannot offer luxury. The right sort of woman would rather a man would give her himself than the baubles of the world. And the man who gives his wife handsome furniture and diamond tiaras and limousine cars, but is not giving her himself is keeping from her the one possession she prizes above all others.

WHAT DO YOU DO TO PROVIDE ENTERTAINMENT?

Summer Time and Cool Home Ideas
Either in the City or Country—
Can You Tell About It?

The Gazette Content Editor believes that a topic of unusual interest at this time would have to do with home summer entertainment and in view of the fact that but few of the great number of people go away from home at all, it would seem as if there ought to be considerable interest aroused in this subject and that a great number of very useful ideas may be secured from the thought of women generally.

What do you do to fill in pleasantly the time which you have on hand? It is to be expected that but few of us have much time, still, at odd times there should be some provision made to entertain the children and to provide amusement and pastime for the older folks. Would you have a basket picnic? Would you have some lawn entertainment? Would you take an interurban ride to some nearby park, or street car ride to the woods at the edge of the city? What would you do when you arrived at those places? Would you hitch up for a day along the river?

To stimulate interest and discussion the Gazette offers for the best articles dealing with home entertainment for the summer months.

Chocolate Dishes.

Chocolate needs no special mention as to its food value as that is a well established fact. As a drink it is both refreshing and nourishing and for cakes, desserts and cake filling as well as confectionary it has no rival.

Plain Chocolate.

Melt two squares of chocolate, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of salt and a cup of boiling water; boil five minutes then add three cups of hot milk and beat well with a Dover egg beater to prevent the scum from forming. Serve very hot.

A chocolate sauce to serve hot with ice cream is a favorite dessert. Prepare by creaming a fourth of a cup of butter; add half a cup of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch and two squares of melted chocolate and a pint of boiling water. Cook for ten minutes, add a pinch of cinnamon, strain and serve.

Chocolate Balls.

Cream one-third of a cup of butter; add two squares of grated chocolate, a cup of sugar, two cupfuls of flour in which two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt have been sifted; add a half a cup of milk, beat well and cut and fold in the whites of four eggs. Pour into individual molds and steam 40 minutes. Serve with the chocolate sauce.

Chocolate Bread Pudding.

Take three-fourths of a cup of bread crumbs, add two cups of scalded milk, two squares of grated chocolate, two eggs well beaten, a pinch of salt, a half teaspoonful of vanilla, a fourth of a cup of cold milk and three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Pour into a baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake one hour, stirring twice during the baking.

A little grated chocolate added to a spice cake adds to the flavor.

To Keep Potatoes Hot.

TALK TO HOUSE-KEEPERS

(By Nellie L. Horn.)

"I can teach sugar to slip down your throat a million of ways,"—Dekker and Ford.

In all probability there are no desserts that are more popular or more easily made than those of the custard variety.

One of the delectable of the boiled custards is the favorite of our childhood days, irretrievably linked in our memories with "company"—Floating Island.

To every pint of milk allow three eggs, and a tablespoon of sugar to each egg. Put the milk in a sauce pan and let it stand over the fire until it comes to a scald. Meanwhile, separate the eggs, setting the whites aside. Beat a tablespoon of sugar for each egg into the yolks, and when the milk is at the scalding point, pour it slowly over the eggs, stirring all the time. Return to the fire, and cook long enough to dissolve the sugar and cook the eggs, but no longer, or the mixture will curdle. If, however, it should turn at once into a cold bowl and beat rapidly until it is smooth. Let it cool, then flavor to taste. Now beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff, dry froth, add sugar and flavoring to taste, and heap in little "islands" on top of the custard. Serve ice cold with any plain loaf cake.

Baked custards require less watching, and when properly made are a most pleasing dessert. The baking process should be a slow one, as watery custard is caused by cooking in an oven that is too hot. Set the custard cups in a pan of warm water, and see that the water does not boil during the baking. Cook until the custard is firm in the center, testing by inserting the point of a knife blade. If it comes out clean, it is done.

Chocolate Custard is certain to prove a very delightful dessert. Put a quart of milk on to heat in a double boiler; while it is heating, put a cup of sugar, one-half cup of grated bitter chocolate and four tablespoonfuls of boiling water into a small sauce pan, and stir over the fire until the mixture looks smooth and glossy. Remove from the fire, and gradually stir it into the hot milk, adding half a teaspoon of salt. Pour this over four well beaten eggs, stirring constantly. Pour into the custard cups, set in a pan of warm water, and bake until done. Serve with or without cream.

When small fruit is plentiful, the steamed berry puddings are both delicate and delicious. They may be made with strawberries, pitted cherries, raspberries, or chopped pineapple. For this the Spoonful Pudding is a very excellent recipe. This amount will make three servings. Cream one tablespoon of butter, then cream together the butter and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Sift together one tablespoon of corn starch, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a teaspoon of baking powder and a pinch of salt; mix with the butter and eggs; add one tablespoon of milk and one egg beaten separately. Beat the batter thoroughly. Butter three earthenware coffee cups, and put two liberal tablespoonfuls of fruit in each, and two tablespoonfuls of butter over the fruit. Cook in a steamer for forty-five minutes, and serve with any liquid sauce suitable for steamed pudding, or with sugar and cream.

USEFUL AND PRETTY SCARFS

Most Charming New Effects Are Those Made of Chiffon, Finished With Ruffle.

There are few girls who do not regard their collections of fine scarfs as among the most treasured of their possessions, and there are so many occasions when these scarfs are useful, not to mention the mere joy of possession, that a girl can always be sure of pleasing her young friends by gifts of attractive scarfs, especially if they are unique or in the very latest fashion.

Among the most charming new scarfs which a girl who is a good needlewoman may make are those of chiffon, finished with a narrow ruffle of the same, which is set on with hemstitching. The scarfs are of rainbow chiffon in the loveliest shades, ranging from white to quite deep tints. They are long and wide and are so picturesque as to prove an addition to any toilette. One of American Beauty tints, shading to the faintest pink, was especially lovely. The ruffle which edged the scarf was not more than five inches wide. While hemstitching around the edges makes the scarf more valuable as a gift, it does not add to its picturesqueness, and a girl who is an adept at hemstitching may omit the hemstitching and still produce a highly attractive scarf.

Another style of scarf which is much admired at the moment, and which has genuine beauty that will keep it popular among persons of taste for a long time is the beaded chiffon scarf with gathered ends. These scarfs are made of chiffon, but in the plain colors, and they are beaded or in the colored crystal beads. Some of them have quite heavy designs carried out in subtle shades of color on backgrounds of white or pale tinted chiffons. The ends are gathered to a point and finished with tassels of knotted silk and bands. Sometimes larger beads are used for these tassels than those employed on the scarf, while on other scarfs a great many of the strands of small beads are gathered together to make the heavier strands for the tassels.

LIKE ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS

Women of Fashion Prefer Them to the Real Thing in the Way of Posies.

Chrysanthemums, violets, carnations, polka-dots, all the lovely flowers favored by fashion, are reproduced this season in artificial form. Not only are they perfect in appearance, but they are scented. Thus, the woman who has all her gowns, furs, etc., fragrant of violets may wear her favorite flower of a much more lasting nature than those nature offers her, redolent, too, of sweet perfume.

This custom of reproducing the beauties of nature's flowers by artificial means is no modern one. In the tombs of the Egyptians artificial flowers were discovered, made out of dyed linen. Although they had lain for 3,000 years, they kept some semblance of their original appearance.

In the Rococo days, when all luxury was carried to a pitch of extravagance, elegant ladies preferred imitation flowers to real ones. A famous artist in artificial flower making was engaged to give Marie Antoinette and her ladies lessons in his art.

Red to Be Worn.

There are indications that considerable red of a bright hue will be worn during the coming spring, particularly in connection with black and white. This may be seen in evidence in the new neckwear. Winders and four-hands, to be worn with embroidered linen collars, are shown in scarlet silk with a border of black and white. Sometimes the border consists of a narrow fell which finishes the bias ends of a natty four-hand, again it is a broad band on a Windsor scarf that is tied in a double bow.

ACKNOWLEDGE IT.

Janesville Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

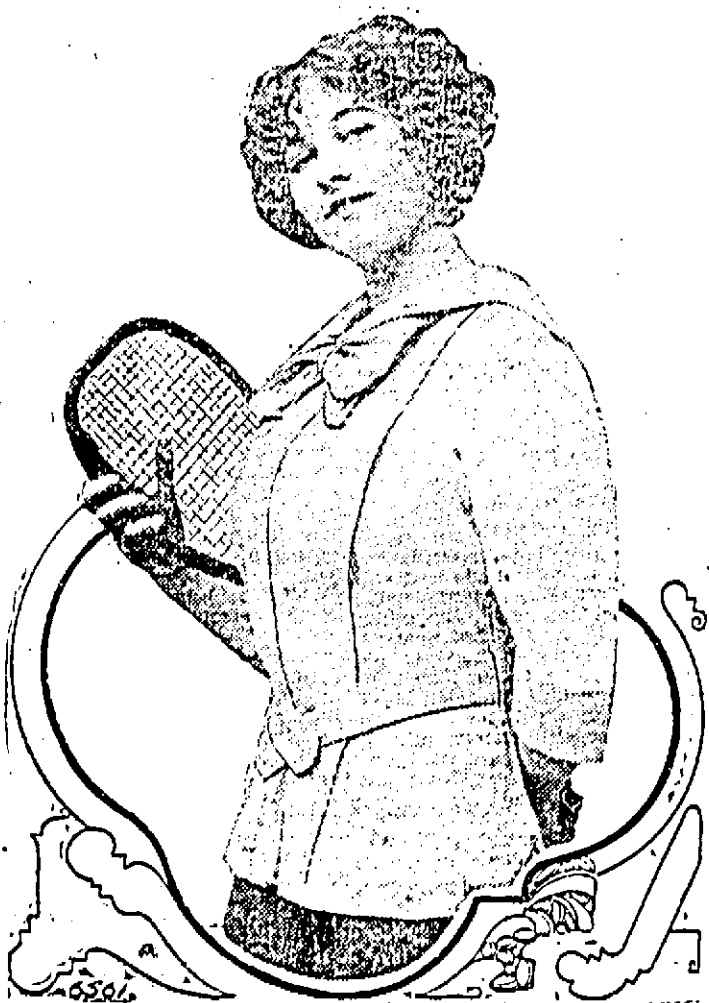

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Janesville given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

Mrs. William Mohr, 310 N. Academy St., Janesville, Wis., says: "About two years ago I had an attack of kidney trouble and at that time I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co. The use of only two boxes cured me. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with satisfactory results and I therefore know this remedy to be a reliable one." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

The Benefit Listed. Mrs. Mohr interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she said: "I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. They permanently rid me of kidney complaint and during the past two years, I have had no further need of a kidney medicine."

Like every feature of dress that is at the same time picturesque, becoming and practical, the new Norfolk outfit which has taken like wildfire. Every girl who enjoys out-of-door fun is enjoying it in one of these natty little waists this year and the popular Norfolk is worn also by large-boned, matronly women who would much better stick to a bodice trimly tucked under the skirt. On two stout figures, the Norfolk portly resembles a dressing sacquin and should be worn only by the young and slender woman tucking part in out-of-door sports. This Norfolk waist is made of white linen with collar, cuffs and belt of pale pink linen.

EVANSVILLE SCHOOL BOARD IN MEETING

Principal F. J. Lowth Recommended Establishment of Commercial Course in High School—Statement of Finances.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, July 11.—The annual school meeting was held Monday evening at the high school assembly room. After the usual reports of officers were read, Walter E. Green was re-elected as clerk, and Mrs. Burr Tolles and C. J. Pearson were elected as members of the school board.

As Principal F. J. Lowth was unable to be in attendance his third annual report was read by Mr. Green. Mr. Lowth had reviewed the work of the year and made numerous helpful suggestions. In his opinion the Evansville high school courses of study are not adapted to the needs of all the young people who attend the high school. He thought it especially true in case of boys who find it necessary to earn their own living and cannot afford to go through college.

He suggested adding a practical business course for those desiring and needing such training, and said that a two year commercial course would be well patronized by both boys and girls and also thought the school should offer a good course in agriculture.

The report showed that in the high school 108 students were enrolled—38 boys and 70 girls. The average daily attendance was 102½, which is a better record than last year.

In the grades, including the kindergarten, 422 pupils have been enrolled—199 boys and 223 girls. There were six more pupils in the grades than last year. The average attendance in the grades for the past year is 333. There were 44 more resident students in the high school this year and their respective towns will pay to this district $776, which is a little more than the previous year.

It was voted to make an appropriation of $11,000 for current expenses. This amount was a trifle more than the board asked for, but it was deemed necessary to raise this amount as it was needed to lay some new sidewalks, make sewer connections, and a few general repairs. The treasurer's report for the year ending July 1, 1911, is as follows:

FEWER STOPS MADE BY THE INTERURBAN

Order Going Into Effect Today Eliminates Thirty Stops Between Janesville and Rockford, Insuring Prompter Service.

According to an order recently issued by the management of the Rockford and Interurban road thirty stops between Rockford and Janesville were eliminated, for the first time today. The change was found to be necessary to make better time and to run on the regular schedule. Most of the places at which the cars will no longer stop are unimportant and will inconvenience the patrons very little. Between Beloit and Janesville there are thirteen stops eliminated, as follows:

Baldwins, Oak Grove, Yost House, Higswood, Beloit, Tolles, Murphy's, Welch Auto, Siding 63, Rannages, Northwestern highway.

The stops eliminated on the line from Beloit to Rockford, as far as Rockford, are, Fair Oaks, Shaw's, Union Street (Rockford), Siding 8, Berkmans, Hattches, Buchanan's, Hillebray's Corners, McDonald's, Raccoon P. O., and Orleans.

No More Ticket Books.
There will be no more ticket books issued by the Interurban company, but in their place later in the month, what is known as the "commuter's book" will be placed on sale. This will be an interchangeable mileage book costing $5 and containing 86 worth of tickets. The reason for the change has been trouble arising out of the use of the ticket book which were for personal use only. The new arrangement permits any member of the family to use the tickets.

FARM NOTES.
Not Written for Farmers.
By H. L. RANN.

Never carry the brush into the back lot to burn it. Take it out into the middle of the road and set fire to a few automobile tires. They're only worth $30 apiece.

There is altogether too much waste on the farm—wasted time, wasted effort and wasted hot air. One swivel-tongued hired man with pneumatic wheel supply can kill more time than a whole crew of section hands on a hot day. Insist on less gab and more get.

We have a word to say to the farmer's wife. If your husband sticks up his nose at the milk, lead him to the feed corral or by the ear and tell him to drop his appetite with pig fodder. Some men will sit down in their homes before a nicely cooked meal and from soup to apple pie about the way things taste, but they will go to town and let a fifteen-cent dinner soak into their alimentary tract without a murmur. We know a man who kept this up for a number of years, and one day his wife reached over the spoon-holder and jerked him into several varieties of dishabille before the whole family. When he got his jaw back into alignment and picked his false teeth out of the gray he was a changed man, becoming so mellow in spirit that he offered to go four rounds with a soup bone. As a rule, we deplore violence in the home, but sometimes the only way to get along with a cross-grained feeder is to beat him up with the mop handle.

The self-opening farm gate is a delusion and a snare. We used to have one, and it was a bigger fourdasher than a plow and a double horse and a ramp meeting at one and the same time. This gate was guaranteed to open at the sound of its master's voice, in the teeth of a head wind, and was warranted better broke and sound of wind and limb. As a matter of fact, it always had to be opened with a set of Jack screws and a crowbar. It was the biggest nuisance on the place, and caused all the hired help on the farm to fall from grace. We finally gave it to a Methodist neighbor who wanted to test his piety.

OSCAR HAMMARLUND GIVEN SURPRISE COSTUME PARTY
Friends in Comical Attire Drove to Home in Hayrack and Spent Monday Evening With Him.
Oscar Hammarlund was most happily surprised at his home on Logan avenue Monday evening by a party of about thirty of his friends. The party came in a hayrack and each was dressed in some comical attire, representing some famous actor or singer. A good deal of fun and amusement was furnished, each one being required to do some stunts. A delicious lunch was served at midnight.

Secret of Happiness.

Keep true to our best faith and dot the day with deeds which love and kindness prompt. Be just in your dealings, and keep from stain of sin in thought and word, and you shall wear the crown of an approving conscience and know the secret of the happy life.—L. Mench Chambers.

Peculiar Discovery of Mine.

One of the most valuable arsenic mines in the United States, on a Virginia mountain, was discovered when a farmer's cows were killed by water flowing from its poisonous deposits.

PLANS ARE COMPLETE FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMP

The Party of Boys Will Leave on July 18th in Motor Autos For Lake Delavan Camp.

On the 18th of this month, the boys who intend to go on the trip to Lake Delavan with the Y. M. C. A., will leave the association building, they and their baggage being taken in Motor automobile trucks. The officials in charge have made arrangements with the auto company to carry the whole party and its equipment thus doing away with the railway trip. The camp is open to all Juniors of the Association. It will be in charge of Secretary Kline and Physical Director Campbell, who will be assisted by helpers from the Senior class.

While the boys are in camp they will be entertained by all sorts of sports. There will be swimming, boating, fishing and all the athletic sports, such as baseball, cross-country runs, etc. There will also be a number of cameras on the spot so that souvenir pictures of the camp can be taken. Taken all in all, the trip seems to promise well to fulfill its purpose of giving the boys a pleasant and instructive outing, at a small expense. All applications to go must be handed in at the Association building by July 15th.

LEARN OF BROTHER LIVING IN PONTIAC

Whereabouts of George Herman Kneph, Whom They Had Not Seen Since 1870, Revealed to Brother and Sister Here.

After forty-one years of separation Otto Kneph and his sister, Mrs. Fred Hohn of this city, have discovered the whereabouts of their brother, George Herman Kneph, whom they had supposed was dead, as all traces of him had been lost. George Herman Kneph came to this city from Germany and shortly afterward other members of his family followed. In 1870 he left Janesville and went to Chicago, finally settling in Pontiac, Ill., where he resided for the past years. During that time he has prospered and is now fairly well to do. He has won high esteem among his fellow citizens.

Word of his present whereabouts was brought to Mr. Kneph's relatives in this city through T. W. Barrett of Pontiac, Ill., who is spending a month here at the home of his son, T. W. Barrett, Jr., 520 Milton avenue.

GOLDEN WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED AT FULTON

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Murwin Were Married Fifty Years Ago in Janesville—Since Resided in Fulton.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Fulton, July 11.—On July 3rd, 1861, Oliver Murwin and Anna Prottejohn were married in Janesville, Wis., they returning at once to Fulton, where they have since made their home. On Monday, July 3rd, 1911, about fifty of their relatives and friends gathered at their home in Fulton to help them celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, who were the only witnesses at the wedding, were also present.

The Edgerton band furnished music at the ice cream social on Oliver Murwin's lawn Monday evening. The Edgertons have a nice sum to add to their organ fund now.

Miss S. E. Bentley returned home from Rockford Saturday.

T. S. Hagar is here from Walker, Ontario, for a visit with relatives.

Miss Nell Bentley is here from Chicago, spending her vacation with relatives.

Rev. A. G. Cogswell spent a few days this week with friends at Geneva Lake.

Wm. Bush, of Chicago, is spending his vacation with Fulton friends.

Mrs. Peter Neslund and daughter, Marie, are visiting relatives in Waukegan, Wis.

Three young men of Chicago are spending their vacation at the Fulton boarding house.

Mrs. Herbert Polan of Milton spent a few days last week with her friend, Miss Ida Murwin.

Misses Olive Greene and Lenora Raymond spent last Thursday in Evansville.

Rev. Roberts of Edgerton occupied the pulpit here last Sunday morning and evening.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the sacred concert in the Fulton church next Sunday evening, July 16th.

JUDGE E. H. GARY

FORMS WORLD STEEL TRUST

Judge E. H. Gary, of the World Trust is no longer a creature of the future, but it is already a living commercial product due to the active interest of Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the Executive Committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation. At the International Association of Steel Manufacturers, the foremost firms in that industry in America, Canada, Belgium, Austria, England, France, Germany, Spain, unanimously acclaimed Judge Gary's idea when he suggested the combining of all the world steel producers for the betterment of the industry.

Washington, D. C. Chairman Stanley of the Steel Trust Investigating Committee said that the formation of the World Trust, not a surprise and feels it is the direct outcome of the Gary plan and world institutions. Senator Sumner is of the opinion that Judge Gary's action in forming World Trust will eventually work out to be the detriment of the trade because it will destroy healthy competition.

CARL VON METZ MEYER

DR. JECKEL AND MR. HYDE UP TO DATE.

Karl Von Metz Meyer, Banker and Durgler
New York City. The meteoric career of the popular Norwegian Army Lieutenant now engaged in the banking business in New York, Karl Von Metz Meyer, was brought to an abrupt close when he was arrested and confessed to having looted eighteen homes. In his confession he said that he stole because his salary did not permit him to entertain women lavishly. A loving cup which he stole from the home of Charles F. Peabody on July 13th brought about his arrest. For months the New York police fully aware of the thefts have seen the handsome lieutenant frequently but never suspected him.

To Busy To Respect National Hymn
Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson who may be recalled from his post at Mexico City because of his lack of respect for the American National Hymn. The American Colony at Mexico City, it is said, have started a movement to petition the department at Washington to transfer him to some other post. The incident which has caused so much comment, occurred at the Presidential breakfast, a part of the Fourth of July celebration. The famous military band was playing "America" out of compliment to the day. As soon as the familiar strains of the opening bars were heard, President Data Barro who was seated next to Wilson at the table, asked the Ambassador if it was not customary to stand up while the hymn was played in the United States. Ambassador Wilson replied "We are eating, what's the use?" By this time everybody except the Representative of the American government was standing, and the Ambassador, taking in the situation, arose to his feet.

He Never Woke Up.
A market gardener, was on his way to the great Paris markets with a cartload of vegetables, when he fell asleep. His horse, being familiar with the road, kept on. At midnight the vehicle reached a grade crossing, where the gate had accidentally been left open. An express train hit it, and smashed the cart to splinters. The farmer was found unconscious on his turpids, but otherwise none the worse for wear. His horse was grazing quietly in a neighboring field.

The Ideal Woman.

Our ideal of what women ought to be is changing with a dizzy rapidity.—Englishwoman.

The Skin and Not the Blood.

Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely a skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Tissue Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Moritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Moritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. "It isn't the fact that the papers publish so much news about crime," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "that makes me have my doubts about the world growing better. It's the fact that that's the kind of stuff the people seem to want to read."

Locust Grove in Pennsylvania.
Lemon Shick of Oregon, Lancaster county, has planted a locust grove containing 8,000 trees on one of his farms near that place. The great demand for this wood for fence and other purposes and its security are the principal reasons for starting the grove. About 35 acres of ground are covered with the trees.

THERE'S NO NEED OF SUFFERING WITH SICK BODIES

There's no need of dosing with obnoxious drugs. There's no need of being cut to pieces.

Chiropractic adjustments cause every known disease to yield readily. Chiropractic science is the most wonderful aid to mankind in centuries. It locates the cause of disease and provides a means of adjusting or removing this cause more promptly, radically and permanently than any other method known. If you are sick and suffering come to us. 98 per cent of the people that come to the Chiropractors get well and this, notwithstanding the fact that 75 per cent of these same people have been given up by the medical profession.

Call for an examination and consultation free in regard to your troubles. Even though slight, they may be nature's danger signals of serious ailments.

"You have not explained fully," he said, "how Griswold contrived to smuggle the small diamond into Miss Holcomb's room."

"Nor how the old curiously dealer had the visiting card of Bruxton Sands," suggested the doctor hesitantly. He disliked to seem over-critical of a man who had done so much for Elton.

"Neither have you worked out an explanation of the fact that it was a woman who gave the order to the three French firms for the manufacture of the false diamonds, and that she gave the name of Elton Holcomb," Manning pursued. "You'll have to make that clear to Mott, I'm thinking."

"I don't quite understand why the Hindoos kidnapped you, Lieutenant," added Fitch tentatively.

Britz smiled.

"More details," Britz replied. "First, Griswold did not smuggle the diamond into Miss Holcomb's room. That little trick was pulled off by Ali. He was the only one who could have done it, and his reason for wanting to throw suspicion on the young woman is plain. He was in the house to get the necklace and he also wanted to make a safe getaway. Therefore, he figured, if the jewels should be missed before he was able to get them out of the house, it would help his chances of escape to have suspicion thrown on the secretary. The diamond that was found among her things did not belong to the collarette, but the size and luster matched any one of a dozen of the stones in that magnificent setting, so that all of us took it for granted it was Mrs. Missioner's property."

"Very good," parried the chief. "How about the other points?"

"It needs no vivid imagination," said Britz, "to picture Curtis Griswold employing a young woman to take the drawings to the French manufacturers and telling her to introduce herself as Elton Holcomb, or by any other name he desired."

Manning nodded reluctantly, Fitch approvingly.

"As for old Martin's possession of Sands' card," continued the lieutenant, "I see no explanation about that except that Griswold handed it to him. There seems to be a streak of malicious mischief in our club friend. As a side, exploit in pulling off a big crime, he would enjoy making trouble for another—especially for a man he had reason to fear as a rival, which was the case with Sands. It may be he even hoped to cast suspicion permanently on the millionaire, though that seems hardly possible. Even when Sands acted so mysteriously in regard to that letter he recovered from the Hindoo burglar, he did not make me suspect he had stolen the diamonds, the strongest suspicion I had was that he might be shielding the thief, and that didn't last long."

"And your own little adventure?" asked the chief of detectives with a trace of malice.

"Oh, that was only a precaution on their part. They took the chance I might have recovered the Maharajah, I suppose. Maybe they expected to find in my possession something that would give them a clue to the whereabouts of the stone. Then, once they got me, they thought they might as well keep me out of the running until they got what they wanted. It was no part of their plan to let me find the jewels and turn them over to Mrs. Missioner."

"You had a close call there, Lieutenant," observed the physician.

"Close enough," said Britz calmly. "But it's all in the day's work."

"As Britz finished there was a timid tap on the door. In response to Manning's curt "Come in!" Donnelly and Carson crossed the threshold, and did their best to stand at ease in front of the lieutenant's desk.

"You sent, huh, for us, Chief?"

"Yes," said Manning. "Lieutenant Britz wants you to attend to a little matter for him."

"Yes, Donnelly," said Britz coolly: "If you have nothing better to do just now, suppose you run up to Curtis Griswold's apartment, and tell him the chief wants to talk to him."

"Suppose he won't come," said Donnelly, who evidently did not yet suspect it was desired that the clubman be taken into custody.

"Bring him, then," said Britz. "You haven't forgotten how to show a gentleman down to Headquarters, have you?"

Donnelly winced under the lieutenant's scorn, and Carson turned gray.

"And you, Mr. Carson," said Britz, renewing his instructions, "be good enough to take a trip to the Hotel Renaissance, and ask Mrs. Delaroché to come down to see us for a little while."

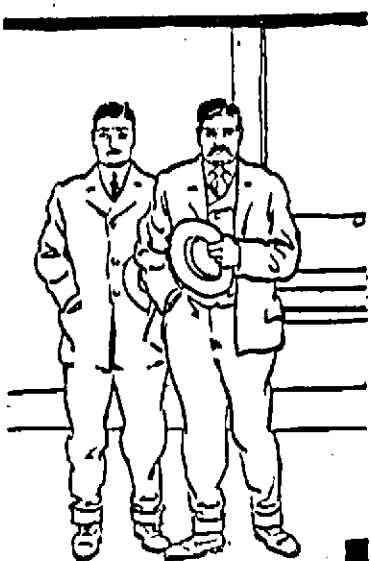

Carson, in the crisis, felt he could not be too precise.

"Suppose she declines?" he asked.

"Bring her!" said Britz.

Fitch laughed aloud at the consternation in the faces of the two detectives. It was manifest both Donnelly and Carson were so far from the facts in the mystery that not only had neither of them dreamed of making a prisoner of Griswold, that naive society man who had volunteered so much assistance to them in their efforts to weave a web of circumstantial evidence against Elton Holcomb, but that they were absolutely ignorant of the existence of such a person as Millicent Delaroché. They shuddered at the thought of increasing nervousness as they felt the eyes of their chief upon them. Donnelly shot a glance of ill-repressed hatred at Britz as the lieutenant, at ease in his revolving chair, faced the crestfallen detectives with a satirical smile.

Once or twice Donnelly essayed to speak, but each time he caught the frozen expression on the faces of the chief and Britz, and the words died in his throat. Nothing remained save for the two brilliant crime-hunters to carry out the lieutenant's orders. As they turned to go their discomfort was augmented by the real detective's mock solicitude.

"You sent, huh, for us, Chief."

"You'll find it an easy job, boys. Just ask the two of them to come down here quietly, and if they don't want to come, make 'em. Show them your shields, you know, and all that sort of thing."

When they had gone, Britz indulged his amusement to the extent of a laugh; Fitch joined him, and Manning, after a brief attempt to keep his face straight, also laughed heartily.

CHAPTER XXV.

The Attack on the Yacht.

Britz, Manning and Fitch walked briskly around the corner and boarded at Blocker Street a subway train. At Fourteenth Street they caught the first uptown Van Cortlandt express of the morning, and they made good time to Two Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street. There they left the train, and walked quickly along the edge of a grassy bluff overlooking the government cut that now connects the Harlem and Hudson rivers by a more direct route than the old Mynuten Duyvil creek. A few hundred yards beyond the low fence that separates the meadow from the street they came upon a man standing close behind a large tree. He was screened from the little street and from the bridge that spans it by thick underbrush. When he sighted Britz he lifted his hand warningly and beckoned. The three men went within the shelter of the bush.

"Anything new, Gordon?" inquired Britz.

"Yes," said the other detective. "They have gone aboard."

"Where's Hicks?"

"Down there near the water, piping them off."

"Are they on deck?"

"No, in the cabin; they seem pretty busy, too."

Gordon looked at the sky. It was growing brighter every minute.

Stepping with most solicitous tenderness on the grass, and avoiding every leaf and twig that might give forth a slight crackle, the four men made their way slowly among the bushes to the spot where Hicks, lying at full length with his head only a little way above the ground, was waiting and, at the same time, watching a naphtha yacht of more than ordinary size.

After a whispered conference with Hicks, Britz slipped his hand into a side pocket of his coat, and took out something that glittered in the sunshine. At a single word from Britz, Gordon and Hicks wormed their way along the bank until they were at the bow of the yacht. Britz, Fitch and Manning stayed near the stern. Suddenly the lieutenant fired a shot over the yacht that echoed metallically from the cliffs, and at the signal, all five of the attacking party leaped aboard the yacht, their feet striking the polished deck with a concerted thud that must have made those within the cabin think they were feeling the first shock of a landslide.

The five men on the deck gave those below little time for analysis of their sensations. Gordon and Hicks raced around the wheelhouse to the starboard side of the craft, and dashed down the companionway from that direction, while Britz, Manning and Fitch hurried themselves into the port entrance to the cabin, alighting on a richly carpeted floor a dozen feet below the deck. Two shots followed before the police party could seize Prince Kananda and Ali, who, lying in the center of the cabin, Britz and Gordon struck upward the revolvers of the Indians as the triggers were pulled. The bullets flew high, harrying no one. Behind Kananda and Ali, using a table as a breastwork, stood two more Hindoos, both of them strangers to Britz. They were unarmed save for wicked-looking Malay knives they gripped nervously as they crouched in waiting for an attack.

Britz and Manning jammed their pistols into the faces of the men with the knives; but the Indians, undismayed, made savage slashes at them with their razor-edged long knives. Gordon and Fitch sprang upon the knife-bearers, Hicks with a pistol in each hand standing off Kananda and Ali. Again and again the Hindoos slashed at their assailants, and that they did not split at least one head was due to the wary agility of the four who attacked them. Shots from the detectives' revolvers would have brought them down at such short range, of course; but the policemen seemed bent on capturing them alive, and Fitch was not a man to have recourse to bloodshed until he could be certain it was inevitable. Britz and Manning waited their chance. After futile swings at the Indians, they closed with them, clubbing their revolvers and bringing them down with crashing force on the gaudy turbans of the Orientals. A few seconds of that vicious pounding stunned the Hindoos, and it was then that the work of a moment to slip handcuffs on them, Kananda and Ali, in the meanwhile, had made no further attempt to use their pistols. They read death in Hicks' eyes as he confronted them with his long, blue gleaming barrels aimed straight at them. Their hesitation was fatal to their hope of escape. For even as Ali, doubtless at a whisper or signal from the Prince, swung himself about to interpose himself between Hicks and the petty potentate's son, while Kananda turned for a dash to the deck, Britz, Fitch and Manning, leaving Gordon in charge of the captured

Indians, surrounded the other two and disarmed them. Breathing heavily from the short but sharp struggle, the captors marched their prisoners to the far end of the cabin and seated themselves between the Hindoos and the doors. They were still on the alert to prevent an attempt to escape on the part of Kananda or Ali. The other two Indians being handcuffed, it was less likely they would make a spur for liberty, but the policeman took no chances.

"Now, Mr. Kananda," said Britz to the Prince cheerily, "I reckon we'll have those diamonds."

"Perhaps you will be good enough to explain," parried the Prince with his most blasé Cambridge manner. "Explain nothing!" shouted Britz. "I've fenced with you fellows long enough. We've caught you now and we want the goods."

"Since you are resolved to carry this miserable farce farther," said the Prince, "I suppose we shall have to submit."

"You'll submit to a search, that's what you'll do!" interrupted Manning. "I don't blame you, Britz, for losing your temper with this crowd; fresh is no name for it."

The Chief nodded to Gordon and Hicks, and they began a search of the four prisoners that left nothing undone to find the diamonds. When they had examined every article of the Indians' apparel, from the Oriental costumes of the low-caste Hindoos to the conventional attire of the Prince, they looked to Manning for further instructions, for they had found nothing.

Then all four of the detectives, with the Chief and the doctor, ransacked the cabin, fore and aft and from starboard to port, as thoroughly as the Indian burglars had gone through the apartments of Griswold and Sands. They even lifted the heavy furniture about, and prodded every locker. In vain. If the diamonds were on board the yacht, they were not in the saloon.

Gordon went to the wheel, while Hicks, who had some knowledge of machinery, watched and regulated the feed of the motor. Silently as a giant swan, and as smoothly, the yacht threaded the cut to the broader stretch beyond the Mynuten Duyvil creek and, passing under the long railroad bridge on which the famous Little Dolly Varden train tottered from bank to bank, swung downstream in the Hudson and headed for the Battery. The yacht was off Grant's Tomb before an idea occurred to Fitch, for which Britz not only gave him full credit, but blessed him heartily.

"See if any one of those men is wounded, Lieutenant," Fitch suggested.

Britz and Manning looked the Oriental over, and made them walk up and down the cabin. The Prince halted slightly in his gait for an instant, then recovered control of his muscles, and strode as steadily as his low-caste compatriots.

DEATH TO MASSACHUSETTS PAWNROCKERS.

Governor Foss of Massachusetts Who Has Fathered the Bill Creating State Control of Loan Companies.

Boston, Mass., Should the recommendations made by the committee of banks of the legislature be made into laws, it will sound the death knell of the high-interest paying brokers and loan sharks in this State. The recommendation of the committee provides for the establishment of the office of State Supervisor and loan agency. This office has power to issue licenses to loan companies and determine rates of interest. The Supervisor is to be given full power over loan firms and complete access to their books. It further recommends that the present statute authorizing the so-called "paper charges" be repealed. It recommends that a law be passed providing for the assignment of wages to secure small loans making them valid only when accepted by writing by employer and assignment and acceptance filed with town or city clerk. No assignment to be valid more than one year. This is one of the most advanced steps taken in the State and will do much to prevent the robberies perpetrated by loan sharks under the guise of interest.

Transmitted Snake Bite.

A vicious snake-bite is the curious case reported from Shepperton, Victoria, by Dr. Welchman. A small dog was bitten by a snake, and in turn bit his master, who was dressing his wound. The dog died. The man soon afterward became drowsy and on being taken to a hospital developed alarming symptoms of snake poisoning, and only energetic treatment saved his life.

Exercise for Nervousness.

Exercise conscientiously gone through in your bedroom night and morning, a few breaths of fresh air taken every day in the open air, and a brisk, even walk, during which care is peremptorily banished from the mind, will either separately or collectively accomplish as much, if not more, toward reducing nervous illness than a sea voyage under the best conditions.

Apples for Sleeplessness.

The apple is such a common and well known fruit that few people are familiar with its remarkable medical qualities. But one of the best things a person can do to keep in good health and to keep sound is to eat an apple just before going to bed. The apple is an excellent brain food, because it has, in easily digested shape, more phosphoric acid than any other fruit.

Exercise conscientiously gone through in your bedroom night and morning, a few breaths of fresh air taken every day in the open air, and a brisk, even walk, during which care is peremptorily banished from the mind, will either separately or collectively accomplish as much, if not more, toward reducing nervous illness than a sea voyage under the best conditions.

Apples for Sleeplessness.

The apple is such a common and well known fruit that few people are familiar with its remarkable medical qualities. But one of the best things a person can do to keep in good health and to keep sound is to eat an apple just before going to bed. The apple is an excellent brain food, because it has, in easily digested shape, more phosphoric acid than any other fruit.
